Sergey,

Very interesting article! And LOP is indeed a very noble pursuit if I may humbly say so. As I was reading your article, I couldn't help thinking more abstractly/philosophically about your ideals and the evolutionary direction your path is heading. Everything is connected, and everything is converging.

I think in many ways, LOP's ultimate aspiration (or the extension of) is the creation of a new language for all humanity. A language without borders. A language that is rich and succinct enough to express every possible human thought unambiguously. A single unifying language of thought. A perfect language.

If that can be achieved, then that is the birth of artificial intelligence/sentience.

All the best in your pursuit towards this ideal!

Warm regards,

Victor
