Hi,

Since 1030 there's no need to patch resources - please take a look at other messages in this thread that describe the preferred way.

Since build 1030 it will be possible to customize component palette.

`$IDEA_HOME/palette` directory will have XML file with custom (additional) components that appear in UI designer palette.

Not found out this directory in build 1032, should I create it by myself?

Guest 8. Re: How can I add JSpinner, JSlider and JProgressBar etc. ? Dec 26, 2003 3:20 PM

Hi,

Yes, you have to create a new *.xml file in that directory (and create directory itself as it does not exist).

At this moment there's no help that describes this issue in detail.

As an example of xml's content please take a look at

<com/intellij/uiDesigner/default-palette.xml> located at wrote in message
